

The free time in Italy

The kids in the Italy spend their free time mostly with their friends. They hang out often after school and are together a lot of time. They are mostly in some bigger group and they have really good times – they make fun of each other, sometimes they go shopping together or just for a walk in the city. If they aren't with their friend, they are with their families and are basically doing the same things – having a lot of fun. They play some board games, video games, go shopping and others. For example my Italian family loves to go for a pizza to a wonderful city called Verona – we were there together too.

They are more night-life people. They go for a walk in the night city, go to sleep later than the czech people usually do, they have dinner around 8-10 pm. When I was in the Italy, we were invited to a party at Ricardo's house. We were dancing, singing, laughing and enjoying it all together – the czech & the italian kids.

When Italians are at the party, it's huge..like a really huge. Just as was our goodbye party. Everyone was dancing, singing and having a lot of fun.

Some of them have some their hobbies after school and they have also a really nice sports ground where they are able to do many activities, but by my opinion, the czech more interested in some after-school and hobbies than they are.

to do kids are activities

Some of them go right after school to have some meat, relax or they are learning to school, but they surely enjoy this too.
